The Place

There is usually someone in the campus ministry to lend you an ear. Also, we spend a lot of time all over the whole university community trying to be friendly, sympathetic and helpful — so, whenever and wherever we meet, let's share a smile, grimace or whatever happens to be appropriate.

The Philosophy

Did you know there is a "Pastoral Team at Sir George?

What it means is this: on our campus, pastoral services are carried out by an ecumenical group representing several religious persuasions. The members of this team (often referred to as "The God Squad") are available for personal counselling on an impromptu basis, as well as for more informal talks and sharing sessions, or whatever students may suggest. They are there to help students in their non-academic human and spiritual pursuits. Under special circumstances pastoral visitation can be arranged for members of the University community, be it to homes or to hospitals.

The Campus Ministry is a helpful resource within the University. We, the chaplains, try to respond to various human needs we see around us. Our deep concern is the quality of life within the university.

Our approach is informal — we're more interested in people than in programs. However, we are available for the events and programs which students and staff feel might be of interest to the University community. The "home base" for all our operations is the Chaplains' Office, H-333. Tel 879-4551.

Comme aumoniers à l'université nous voulons être disponibles à tous les membres de l'université. Les services sont en français ou en anglais selon les besoins. Venez faire un p'tit tour à H-333.

We try to listen... to your good and bad trips
to your hassles about values, goals, parents, friends, whatever
We refer when necessary.

We know people and facilities around SGW and the community.

Maybe we can put you in contact.
We try to relate people to places,
people to people,
people to events.
